Gramophone has opened its doors last Thursday and is up and running. The venue, owned and run by the Rhythm Factory is conveniently located just 50mts south from Spitalfield market. It has an upstairs bar-restaurant and a downstairs club with an capacity of about 100. Built in commercial building from Victorian times, Gramophone displays original brick arches and stone slabs combined with wooden floors, quality soundsystem and a well stocked bar. This place is a treat to hang out on a Sunday afternoon, with Mediterranean food being served at reasonable prices.

Aftermatch is very proud to be one of the selected promoters programming the downstairs club. Musically, the night focusses on minimal sounds within techno and house, enriched with elements of electro and dub.

The lineup features live sets by Alex Fisher and J-Lab both who have released on the after-dinner netlabel and DJ sets by Doudou Malicious (host of the Multivitamin nights), Ekkohaus (another after-dinner artist) , Jug (from Digital Beanbag) , Russ Skellon (Run-resident), Coco and The Growler (co-hosting the night with Alex).

Aftermatch will kick off Sunday (4 Dec) 4pm, gently extending the weekend till 11pm and rewarding the crowd for brave market shopping with uplifting tunes in minimal techno and clicky house. Entry is free.
